Quick curiosity.

I read in one of the blogs (SF's I believe) about future flash games such as card games, pool, chess, etc. I was just curious if that is still an idea on the table. I think it would pull in a whole new wave of traffic.

Yeah, it's still on the table. We'd have it now if we could. People love flash games. ;)

SF's been busy, but said that the flash games were supposed to be in the next version of chat, which may be out. He said that he might look into it tomorrow, possibly even tonight. But we should have flash games soon.

Just out of the blue, is this chat installed on this server or hosted by their company and just integrated?

SF is waiting on the license for the new version, which he won't have until late Sunday night. He's tried the new version and believes that the games are all single-player, which sucks, but I guess it better than no games. lol

Good to know px. It will kinda suck if the games are only single player, but you're right at least there will be games. But at least the ball is rolling, ya know!
