Here's the thing about deleting profiles...

There is no way at this time to delete your own profile. In the TOS it states that you can request your profile be deleted however there is no guarantee as to when or if it will actually be removed (I just can't keep up with them on a timely basis all the time).

I do try to go through the requests when I can, however for some people it seems like they feel it's the absolute most important thing in the world that their profile be deleted right away, I have no idea why. If you are one of these people that needs your profile removed right away simply go to your profile, mouse over the edit tab at the top left, click update your profile, and simply erase any information you have on it, simple as that. The only thing that will be left is a blank profile.

For everyone that is super worried about "canceling your membership", guess what, it's a FREE site lol. I'm not real sure what the big deal is here for some of you but your recurring payment of $0.00 that will never be deducted from your imaginary account that you never submitted will never be taken out lol. Simply delete your info on your profile and just walk away from it, eventually your profile will be removed anyway when we decide to remove old profiles that haven't been used for a long time.

I'm going to try and put something up in the FAQ's about this in a little more detail.
